Mrs. McMinnion, on Third street, arrived at the hour on Saturday afternoon in her new home, gowned in black satin, while her daughter, who received with her, wore certain shades of blue and lace.

The tea table was arranged with Richmond roses and lilles of the valley, and other floral pieces.

Here Mrs. McQueen and Mrs. Gillette dispensed hospitality during the tea. Mrs. Ross, Mrs. Bellamy having charge the second hour. Mrs. Prust can the tea at the end of the afternoon.

Those attending were the Misses McMinnion, Miss Duech, Miss Fraser, Miss McArthur, and Miss Ironsiders.

Some of those present were Mrs. Hartman, Miss McQuade, Mr. Dougall, Miss Graydon, Mrs. Chalmers, Mrs. McLean, Mrs. Cameron, Mrs. Stimpson, Mrs. McLean, Mrs. Nichols, Mrs. Little, Mrs. Ross, Mr. McDonald, Jr., Mrs. Pymes, Mrs. Macmillan, Mrs. Armstrong, Mrs. Morrison, Mrs. McLean, Mrs. Prust, Mrs. Gillespie, Mrs. Kelly, Mrs. Macmillan, Mrs. Butchart, Mrs. Langford, Mrs. Macmillan, Mrs. Brown and many others.

DICK-MINNIS.

A quiet wedding took place in Knox Presbyterian Church, Edmonton about 10:30 a.m. on Saturday, October 12th, when the Rev. E. McGregor, M.A., pastor of the church, married Mr. and Mrs. Dick-Minnis, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. T. Minnis, of Welland, Ontario, but now, of Edmonton. The bride, a slender, handsomely attired girl in a trousseau of grey and black velvet, with hat and mink to match, was a picture of beauty. Her parents, a father and mother, a brother, a sister, a gift for her girl friends on the eve of her departure for the West, their bride and their mother.

On the wedding day a goodly number of friends were present to witness the ceremony. After the service the young couple motored over to the North Side, where they have taken apartment. The bride, who has recently come to the city as supervisor of the construction work on the high-speed road, will remain here.

The wedding reception at the Edmonton Club, the Canadian Women's Press Club held their annual meeting at three o'clock in the Blue Room. There were 100 members present. Mr. Arthur Murphy was elected president; Miss Katherine Hughes, vice-president; Miss Ann Merrill, secretary-treasurer; and Miss Anna Cauley, carried to the effect that the Canadian Women's Press Club would have a general meeting at Edmonton next summer, spring or autumn.

The Club, which is the only one left when entertaining writers passing through the city. They have decided to hold their meetings here again. It was also decided that an entertainment committee be appointed. If the writer's club would accept the invitation, it will be very interesting for Edmonton, as the most active newspaper in Canada with its headquarters in the city.

On Saturday afternoon, despite the cold weather, the 11th Annual successful meeting. Already, in addition to the old members, fifty-eight new ones have been enrolled. A "very difficult" time was had by all. The next meeting will take place on November 2nd and the calendar will be the same as last year. The Musical Club must send in their names before Thursday of this week. The meetings will be very pleasant to receive them.

Miss Helen Beck (Montreal) is the guest of Mrs. Beck, 8610 street.

ENTERTAINMENTS

HUP VAN WINKLE AT THE BIJOU.

It is possible that some of those that have seen Hup Van Winkle at the Bijou, Sunday afternoon, may, in the past three years, have seen the production on the dramatic stage, in which the play has been produced in every city in America.

This year the association raised sufficient money to send two men in the far east field.

Mr. Wallace became head of the association and he turned to the remains of the old immigration of Chinese students from their country to Japan, which began several years ago.

The story is developed in moving pictures, the whole being a vision company with a cast of their best talents.

THE STORY OF THE WEST.

The first meeting of the western and eastern civilizations, said Mr. Wallace, was held in the auditorium of the Bijou, and it was a great success.

There, the Chinese, proud of their文明, and the westerners, of their civilization, met in the flesh.

There, the Chinese, proud of their literature, and proud of their country, yet knowing nothing of the world outside, and the Chinese, equally ignorant of the world outside. Dr. King Kido, the Japanese comedian, was another favorite, giving a brilliant speech and songs rendered with a clear, ringing voice.

He struck a responsive chord in the audience and earned him spontaneous applause. He sang "I'm a Banjo Player," the novelty which the audience scarcely knew how to take.

Toots Paka went through his repertory with the accompaniment of a banjo. The fact that it was distinct from the Japanese language did not seem to affect him, however, appeared to please the audience.

There were a number of other acts, but the introduction was an Irish, somewhat spoilt its effectiveness. At the end of the show, the audience was really funny, the canines doing what was never seen before, and the audience was greatly pleased.

Mr. Harry Christs left last week for Winnipeg, later going to California for the winter.

CLEVER FATE AT THE LYCEUM.

Baby Mine, a double distilled essence of sun, will be the attraction at the Lyceum during all this week, and it is guaranteed that this has been recognized as one of the best remedies for the common cold.

These are common colds in the United States now, which fact goes to prove the accuracy of the forecast.

The plot deals with a young wife who dies by her husband, and he catches her at it, so he leaves home to adopt a baby and let him think that it was his own. This she does, and it is a good story, but it is not a good story.

A NAVAL CONTRIBUTION TO WASHINGTON

Mr. George Lane, of Calgary, has sold 800 head of Alberta beef steers in Chicago for $80,000. Mr. Lane is a gentleman who has made a fortune by his shrewdness and enterprise. It may be safely assumed that this 800 head of Alberta steers would not have been sold in Chicago by him if the "home market" had been as good as the Chicago market. But if it pays Mr. Lane to sell steers in the United States instead of in Canada or England, even when he has to pay a duty of 27 1/2 per cent. for the privilege of doing so, would it not be much more profitable to him—and others—if beef cattle were admitted to the United States free of duty? And as the price paid the farmer and rancher is made lower by every expense incidental to getting the cattle to the ultimate market, would it not mean something worth while to the Alberta cattle-grower if the man who buys his cattle were exempted from paying 27 1/2 per cent. tax?

Restriction does not restrict evidently, for Alberta cattle go to Chicago in spite of the duty, and the Empire is "disinterested" to whom they return the wealth of Alberta cattle "to" the Yangtze, would accomplish this alleged result. But the sum which the Alberta cattle-grower gets for his cattle is reduced by the amount the dealer has to pay to the United States custom's office. The practical question is, How much more wealth is the future of the British Empire, because $80,000 which Mr. Lane would have paid the Canadian farmer and rancher this year must go into the treasury at Washington, to be used in the building of United States battleships?

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP A SUCCESS

There is some sort of a movement on foot in Medicine Hat to turn over a street railway franchise to a private corporation. The matter is, of course, one for the people of Medicine Hat to decide, and none of the business of outsiders. It is in the interests of other cities in Alberta, however, to have it clearly understood that the operation of municipal street railway systems in this Province has not been a success, and that any private ownership scheme promoted on that claim that they have not been a success is travelling upon false pretences. Edmonton and Calgary are the two Alberta cities in which municipal ownership of the street railways has been in existence for a number of years. It is not putting the results too strong to say that neither of these systems could be bought by a private corporation today. In each city the public have got a more widely extended service, and, generally speaking, as good a service, as any private company could give, and given the financial results have never at any time been seriously on the wrong side of the account. Calgary, indeed, boasts that its system has paid from the start. Edmonton's system, being more extended, did not pay at the beginning, but has had its own deficit without trouble, and is now, returning monthly surprises to reduce it. If Medicine Hat decides to grant a franchise to a company it will have to do so for local reasons, and not because municipal ownership has been anything but a decided success in the two Alberta cities which have tried it long enough to test its merits.

WALKING OUT.

Captain Armand Lavergne says he won't go to the Balkans, but will stay in Canada and take a hand in the lesser blood but to him equally interesting war for the advancement of his political principles. His decision marks the failure of Mr. Borden's attempt to buy off his bothersome allies. Mr. Lavergne would not have turned down the offer if this distinguished post if Mr. Monk had not made up his mind to reject the judgeship with which it was offered to secure his silence. The promise is, therefore, that the Nationalists in Parliament will "bolt" and form a third party in the House under Mr. Monk's leadership, while Mr. Lavergne and Mr. Bourassa will aid the Parliamentary delegation in promoting dissension in the electorate.

The withdrawal of this faction from alliance with either of the great political parties to a position of isolation is a matter for general satisfaction; it certainly is preferable to their continuance as the dominating factor in the Government and the dictators of the country's policy on all matters pertaining to our Imperial relations. They should never have been allowed to be other than a separate and distinct body in Parliament and out; and never could have become other save by the deliberate connivance of Mr. Borden in the stratification of his party and the sounding of his most cherished principles. Told Mr. Monk and his followers a few days ago (readily withdrawing from association with the Conservative party) will be welcomed by no class in this country more sincerely by those Conservatives who revere the traditions of their party and who desire to see the party once more free to stand or fall for something. On the Liberal side the schism will be shaded with satisfaction, not merely because it is a cleavage in the ranks of their opponents and the supporters of the policies rendered Ministerial majority in Parliament, but because it will free Canada from the humiliating impotence of a Ministry divided on the question of vindicating our position in the British Empire.

For this happy change—or prospective change—the country has to thank not Mr. Borden, but Mr. Monk. The former has not been doing his best; they are not being kicked out; they are walking out. And that not because they have not been invited to remain. On the contrary, there seems to be nothing within the gift of the Premier which was not theirs for the asking if they would but continue the alliance. They have been beaten, but by their leaders—two of them among the most important departments of the Government. Mr. Pelletier declared a few weeks ago that he had continued to administer the postal affairs despite ill health only because of the extreme unwillingness of Mr. Bourassa to have him. When Mr. Monk nominated a position which he would not remain in the Government if his views on the naval question did not prevail to the farthest extreme, he was offered a judgeship if he would consent to withdraw from politics. Mr. Lavergne was tendered a position which he would not accept, and the naval question did not. It would only cross the ocean until the naval question had been settled. It has been current rumour that the High Commission to Paris was at the disposal of Mr. Bourassa at any time as the price of his services. Hours and emoluments have since by "the way out" at the Nationalist leaders in the effort to keep them in alliance with the Government. As there was no principle or tradition of Conservatism which Mr. Borden was not willing to ignore for the sake of their co-operation, he has been compelled to do so in the public service. He could not have been paid as the price of their continued assistance. That the country is to be relieved of their paralyzing presence in the Cabinet is due to the Nationalists who refused to be bribed, not to the Premier who attempted to buy up first their allegiance and afterwards their silence.

DIES FROM HIS INJURIES.
Alexander Hamilton Gourlay, of 179 St. James street, a well-known hardware merchant, died on early Saturday morning, about 1:30 without regaining consciousness. He had been severely injured in a fire at his residence in Fifeshire, Scotland, up to that city about eight years ago and was in the hospital for months. He had 120 pounds of his best, heavy, wavy hair cut off, a tooth removed, and his nose and ears severely damaged. The letter from his doctor said he would be forwarded to the medical authorities.

MUST UNDERGO OPERATION.
Dr. C. N. B. Thompson, surgeon for the Canadian Northern railway and author of "Money Farming," is to undergo an operation at the University of Alberta Hospital, Toronto. The operation was to be performed as soon as possible while he was traversing the proposed route of the Canadian Northern through the Rockies, but he has been delayed to June 23. Dr. Thompson, of London, Eng.; Thomas of Calais, of Paris, and Dr. J. C. Leonard, of Montreal, are to conduct the operation. The funeral will take place before the announcement of which will appear later.

Remarked on the Side

After all, Armand Lavergne will not go to the Balkans. He will stay in Canada, where the "bites" are thicker.

The not uncommon practice of leaving guns around houses with live cartridges is a dangerous habit, and news reporters pretty busy of late.

A Larouche man recently missed his dog (as I said), and it came back bearing signs that it had been used as a target. The other fellow evidently did not care if the gunner missed his mark.

In the words of the poet (I hope) in another Canadian song, "What care I how fair others be; this is fair enough for me." But it isn't very fair to the poor whose lives have been maltreated.

Some smart fellow said of Teddy Roosevelt that if he went to a funeral he would bring a shotgun and shoot the people around him.

With Roosevelt a hospital will be built, threatening, and Taft going to the theatre surrounded by police, it would seem that being President of the United States is only a little less dangerous than trying to be.

Sir Thomas Lipton says that if he builds another yacht to compete for the America cup, he will name her after himself. Sir Thomas Lipton of shamrock has always held supreme to carry with it, but the New York portmanteau are not likely to have much to lack.

The money to be spent on hospital work in the city is apparently to be a bone of contention amongst local politicians. The money to be spent may be to the tune of the "hones"—the "bones." Some folks feel that when Major Edmonton Hubbard goes up next year he may find it empty.

From local news columns it is gathered that the stock has been very busy of late visiting farms and towns.

The Farmers and Marts of Edmonton will meet on Wednesday evening, October 22d, in the Odd Fellows hall, 1120 Jasper Avenue, and will be a pity to discourage such visits, but all the same the bird ought to be careful what she may find in the year with so many guns about.

SPECIAL TRAIN TO HALIFAX.

To accommodate people who are going to the old country for Christmas the Canadian Northern Railway will run a special train to connect with the Royal Edward, which makes a round trip between Montreal and Halifax. The special train, which will carry first class sleepers and first class day coaches, will leave the Canadian Northern depot on November 21st at 8:15 o'clock p.m., going direct through to Halifax.

ENGLAND'S WAR STRENGTH.

War was imminent and the world was not prepared to say when their country would be at war in the future or with whom. The English, however, were not without forethought. In his short account he had seen two campaigns and he thought he would be able to repeat them. The forces that had been met with by their country in conflicts in the past had been due to the want of foresight. The forces, which gave them strength and ability to the service of their country, were the result of their consideration and gratitude of their citizen comrades. The securing that Canada had done already due to the protection afforded by the British navy, while he did not know what the government might be, he believed that the government appreciated that protection. He was sure that the English public was fully aware of the importance of a practical way by cooperating in the defense of the empire. He urged that the English be realistic in the use of the privilege of mounting the ship and "thoroughly of Canada upon British soil." The English in Canada ceased to be Englishmen in Canada because they became the best men in the world. The English in Canada would become the best men in the world. The English from the masthead of Nelson's flagship a hundred and seven years ago that they were the world's best men, and that day England expects every man this day will do his duty."

BIG AUDIENCE AT RECITAL.

The lecture hall of First Presbyterian Church was filled to over capacity by a large audience, who had come to listen to a recital given by Cyril Hayes, London, Ontario, a student of the Royal College of Musicians, Chester, England. The recital was given under the auspices of the Royal Society of Musicians of Great Britain. His Highness the Duke of York, major selection was the biblical story of Joseph. The audience was held spellbound by the skillful playing of his masterpiece. Mr. Hayes also gave three very pleasing minor selections: "Goliath His Cut" and "Former Gray Getting His Picture Taken." He showed fine taste, originality and skill in his choice of pieces. The following musical selections were also given during the course of the evening: "The Last Judgment" by Alice McDonald and Badie McDonald; "Duet II Holmes and Mrs. Mortimer" and "Song of the North" by Norman Smith. Those numbers all proved highly pleasing and were received with great enthusiasm.

At the conclusion of the recital, Mr. Hayes received the painful news that his father was ill in London, Out, of pneumonia. His mother died three years ago.

SIXTY-THOUSAND ENGLISHERS IN CANADA.—Four hundred lodges of the Sons of Empire, representing the victory of England at the battle of Trafalgar over a century ago, held their annual meeting in the Supreme Lodge, in Toronto, Oct. 26, in response to a general invitation. Chapman vindicated the fact that Alberta showed more than one per cent better record in regard to the number of men mustered over all other provinces.

AS ENGLISH CANADIANS.

Bro. Wm. L. Lotke, Edmonton, whose name was coupled with the toast: "Glorious winner of last year's balloon race in the United States," and head of the Sons of Empire, addressed the lodges to be held from St. Vital near Winnipeg, Oct. 27. He said: "It is good to think that part in celebrating a day when not by force of circumstances, but by the grace of God, they have a blow for liberty. Englishmen, wherever they were, should endeavor to do their best to help those who are suffering, which raised enthusiasm in all present. British would continue to be remembered."

In a fervently patriotic speech Bro. T. G. Barker responded to the toast of the Sons of Empire, which raised enthusiasm in all present. British would continue to be remembered.

APPROPRIATE HONOR TO TRAFALGAR DAY

Well Attended and Highly Enjoyable Banquet is Given in Corcoran Hotel Last Night. By Sons of England in the City.

In celebration of the anniversary of Trafalgar are a series of the tenth anniversary of the Sons of England gathered in good spirits at the Corcoran Hotel last evening. The banquet was presided over by Mr. W. H. Whitehead, president of the Sons of England, and Mr. W. H. Whitehead, president of the Sons of England in the City.

Mr. John Ross and his daughter returned to the city Friday from a three months' trip to Eastern Canada. His wife, Mrs. Ross, of the Standard Truck Company for Alberta has returned from a business trip to the United States.

The marriage took place yesterday at 1216 Fourth street of Mr. Harold Whitehead to Miss Martha Tremont. The wedding was held at the Lodge, and there was supporting him a number of prominent citizens. The bridegroom's father, Mr. John Ross, it was suggested that it be made an annual event. A hundred and fifteen persons were present, all provided by the Corona management.

Responding to the toast of His Majesty the King, Mr. Major W. A. Griesbach said that so far as His Majesty's forces concerned, there were 197 battalions, 20 batteries of artillery and the usual department of engineers and medical corps, which were all in full force. Those forces were maintained, not for fun nor for finding some of the world, but for the maintenance of peace and the defense of the country. They had been required to defend the country, but required those forces might be required in the future. If the British Empire was a strong nation, it was in its makeup a desire for fair dealing and an absolute ability on occasions to defend itself.

ENGLAND'S WAR STRENGTH.

War was imminent and the world was not prepared to say when their country would be at war in the future or with whom. The English, however, were not without forethought. In his short account he had seen two campaigns and he thought he would be able to repeat them. The forces that had been met with by their country in conflicts in the past had been due to the want of foresight.

The forces, which gave them strength and ability to the service of their country, were the result of their consideration and gratitude of their citizen comrades. The securing that Canada had done already due to the protection afforded by the British navy, while he did not know what the government might be, he believed that the government appreciated that protection.

He was sure that the English public was fully aware of the importance of a practical way by cooperating in the defense of the empire. He urged that the English be realistic in the use of the privilege of mounting the ship and "thoroughly of Canada upon British soil."

The English in Canada ceased to be Englishmen in Canada because they became the best men in the world. The English in Canada would become the best men in the world.

BLANK WARRANTS ISSUED.

There were some slight ideas through which the English government methods were being adopted to secure the defeat of the independent candidate for the election of the members of parliament. His workers were being arrested and held on various quibbles without trial until after the election, and the excuse for holding the men seemed as disproportionate to their deprival of the right of people to vote as what was going on.

When the men began to look for the Englishman to stand up to the English, he plodded with his bearings to have a little patience with those at the front. He was sure that the English public was fully aware of the importance of a practical way by cooperating in the defense of the empire. He urged that the English be realistic in the use of the privilege of mounting the ship and "thoroughly of Canada upon British soil."

On account of being entirely Scotch, and Ald. Macdonald, his representative, and Capt. W. H. Ross, who presented these present as "brothers in arms," in the absence of the major, G. C. Griesbach, he plodded with his bearings to have a little patience with those at the front. He was sure that the English public was fully aware of the importance of a practical way by cooperating in the defense of the empire. He urged that the English be realistic in the use of the privilege of mounting the ship and "thoroughly of Canada upon British soil."

LITERAL WORK KIDNAPPED.

A case in point is the case of Mr. W. H. Ross, who was arrested by the police of the Borden-Rublin combination, and was not even allowed to see his wife and children. Having a little time to spare before the election, he had complained to his wife about going out with other young fellows at night, and she had no idea what he was doing.

The doctors now declare that this was the cause of death. McNaughton's defense is that he was "guaranteed" and the end of the umbrella.

The case is exciting a great deal of interest. In view of the fact that the English government has reduced the country to a state of anarchy, and that to his knowledge a number of warrants have been issued, a committee of doctors found a new wound that was had been overlooked.

The woman showed that the pole of the umbrella had been thrust into Spangler's face, and that the umbrella had been broken. The point of the umbrella penetrated into the flesh and brain for a total length of six inches. When he was told what was going on.

The doctors now declare that this was the cause of death. McNaughton's defense is that he was "guaranteed" and the end of the umbrella.

Mr. Ross had no idea that she was married at all.

During this state of affairs, nothing could be done to stop the English.

Presently the public for it, stating that it could not take unless Sir Stamford himself could be induced to give up his apathy of the public, who allowed it to go, binding themselves into the hands of the English, who did not exist in a British colony.

This sluggishness of public sentiment and the party madness which makes men morally color blind in politics, has made possible the steady degradation of our political method in this province until we have reached a pass which is unprecedented in our history.

But at least the Roblin-Borden combination will be the answer to the question.

Major Griesbach supported Major Griesbach as representing the Forces. An Englishman in his seat trying to avoid an explanation as to why he contrived to use it.

His speech was:

"A. S. Campbell, president of the Iron Workers' Union, and George's Society, C. Collingwood-Denny, a great, great grandfather and senior authority in the iron workers' union, command at Trafalgar and successor to Lord Nelson—Admiral Lord Collingwood, and the admiral of the section and naval force."

Macdonald voters were corrupted and the English were the ones who contrived to use it.
